TONIGHT: The Cadets are on the road again tonight at Chambers Field where they'll face the 1-2 North Side Legends, who were defeated 14-6 last week by Bishop Dwenger. "North Side is a team with great speed and athletes all over the field," Mannigel said. "They'll play extremely hard and with pride. We need to clean up our own house a bit before we can worry too much about any opponent and what they do." With teams putting extra attention on containing Cook, Belschner has benefitted; the lanky wideout leads the Cadets' talented receiving corps with 14 grabs for 202 yards (14.4 ypr). Cook is next with 13 receptions for 185 yards, followed by Noah Trent (8-95) and Campos (6-99). All four guys will need touches tonight against a North Side secondary that will be looking for its own pick-party after seeing what Snider did a week ago.

LAST WEEK: Concordia's 2-0 start was a sweet erasure of last year's 0-10 effort. Last week, however, that savory taste was eventually soured in the form of a 41-6 setback to Snider's Panthers. "We got off to a great start but couldn't sustain that effort, particularly offensively," coach Tim Mannigel told GameNight after the game. "Our defense actually played fairly well, but six turnovers on the offensive side of the ball along with a stubborn refusal to have any semblance of a rushing attack will never get it done. Some of that is Snider's defense; some of that is us. We'll continue to strive to make improvements and get better as a unit." The Cadets had five passes picked off with two of them returned for touchdowns; one of them (pictured) was called back because of a Snider penalty on the return. Still, the Concordia Air Show produced 256 yards and one touchdown – a 16-yard first-quarter score to senior WR Avery Cook, giving the Cadets a 6-0 lead. Senior wideout Jack Belschner led the team with six receptions for 134 yards, while Cook (4-62) and Jalen Campos (2-57) were next in line. The Cadets' run game – as Mannigel referenced – was woeful, producing negative-20 yards on 16 official attempts. The defense was led by junior linebacker Zach Spielman (15 total tackles, one tackle for loss) and sophomore safety Eli Trent (four solos, one pass breakup).
